(Date of Access, March 2010)

WHOIS in the field of Grey Literature is a compilation of biographical notes provided by authors in the International Conference Series on Grey Literature. This resource is maintained by TextRelease, the Program and Conference Bureau. Records in this guide appear by country and further in alphabetical order by last name of author. <http://www.textrelease.com/whois2010.html>

CANADA

Ruth Cordes is a 2003 MLIS graduate of the School of Library and Information Studies, Dalhousie University, Halifax, Canada. She also holds a BSc (Honours Physics) from Dalhousie, and an MSc (Physical Oceanography) from the University of British Columbia. She is currently employed as a Research Assistant in the Department of Chemistry at Dalhousie University. Email: rcordes@dal.ca

Maureen Dobbins, RN, PhD is an associate professor in the School of Nursing at McMaster University. Currently she is career scientist of the Ontario Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care. Her research efforts have sought to understand knowledge transfer and uptake and evidence-informed decision making among public health decision makers in Canada. Studies have included: identification of barriers and facilitators to research utilization; understanding the information needs of public health decision makers at the local, provincial and federal level; evaluating the use of systematic reviews in provincial policies; exploring where research evidence fits into the decision-making process; evaluating the impact of knowledge transfer strategies, and exploring knowledge brokering in public health units in Ontario. On March 10, 2005 she launched the web site www.health-evidence.ca. This registry houses all reviews evaluating the effectiveness of public health and health promotion interventions published since 1985. The value of this registry is that it meets the need for a single source of high quality effectiveness evidence in public health/health promotion; a need clearly articulated by Canadian public health decision makers. Email: mdobbins@health-evidence.ca

Yongtao Lin is the Librarian at Tom Baker Cancer Knowledge Center, Health Information Network, University of Calgary. Yongtao is responsible for managing the Tom Baker Cancer Knowledge Centre, where she provides library services to clinicians, staff, patients and families. His research focuses primarily on the dissemination of scientific information among Canadian scientists and engineers (both historically and currently) and on the history of scientific and technical publishing in Canada. In 2001 he was named a Dibner Library Research Scholar at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington DC. In recognition of his significant contributions to the bibliography of Canadian science and technology he was awarded the Marie Tremaine Medal by the Bibliographical Society of Canada in 2000 and is the GreyNet Award Recipient in 2004. Email: bertrum.macdonald@dal.ca

Paula Robeson, RN, MScN earned her BN from Memorial University of Newfoundland (1987) and MScN from the University of Ottawa (2000). She has a breadth of nursing experience from across Canada in primary health care, public health, health promotion, and population health. Paula is employed at McMaster University as a Knowledge Broker (KB) with both health-evidence.ca and the National Collaborating Centre for Methods and Tools (NCCMT), one of six public health collaborating centres funded by the Public Health Agency of Canada. In these KB roles Paula is responsible for knowledge transfer and exchange with public health decision makers across Canada to assist them to develop and support evidence-informed practice, programs, and policies in their organizations and communities. To that end, Paula was the Knowledge Broker with a 3-year RCT, Evaluating the Evidence on Knowledge Brokers: Comparing Strategies to support Decision-Makers' Translation of Evidence on Physical Activity and Healthy Body Weights. Through the NCCMT, Paula is coordinating the development of a national network of public health managers. Email: probeson@health-evidence.ca

Marcus Vaska is a librarian at the University of Calgary's Health Sciences Library, where he provides research assistance and support to clients within the Faculty of Medicine and the Calgary Health Region. In addition to exploring innovative instruction techniques for his classes, he has developed newfound appreciation for the pursuit of literature that exists beyond traditional publishing channels. Marcus' current interests focus on the teaching methods and experiences of librarians involved in delivering grey literature searching sessions to academic audiences in a medical setting. Thomas E. Pinelli currently manages NASA's Center for Distance Learning <http://dlcenter.larc.nasa.gov> where he is responsible for the production of five high-energy, Emmy® award-winning, educational programs that enhance and enrich the teaching and learning of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM). Prior to assuming this position, he was a co-principal investigator of the NASA/DoD Aerospace Diffusion Research Project that examined the diffusion of aerospace knowledge at the individual, organizational, national, and international levels. Among other objectives, this project examined the role played by the technical report in the production, transfer, and use of technical information within the aerospace community. The results of this 10-year investigation were published in Knowledge Diffusion in the U.S. Aerospace Industry: Managing Knowledge for Competitive Advantage. In 1990, his dissertation, The Relationship between the Use of U.S. Government Technical Reports by U.S. Aerospace Engineers and Scientists and Selected Institutional and Sociometric Variables, received the American Society for Information Science "Best Doctoral Dissertation Award." In 1985, he received the National Council of Teachers of English "Best Journal Article on Formal Research in Pedagogy or Philosophy" for The Function of Technical Report Components in Screening and Reading Technical Reports. In 1983, Pinelli received the STC Outstanding Research Paper Award for A Survey of Usage of Technical Report Components to Establish Their Most Effective Organization. Pinelli received his Ph.D. from Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana in 1990. Email: Thomas.E.Pinelli@nasa.gov

Nathan Rupp is a metadata librarian at Cornell University's Albert R. Mann Library where he provides access to the library's digital resources, including electronic journals and digital library collections such as the Home Economics Archive (HEARTH, <http://hearth.library.cornell.edu/>). In addition, he assists Cornell students, faculty and staff with research through the library's reference program and teaches workshops on various computer applications. With Lee LaFleur, he explored the use of D-Space (<http://www.dspace.org>) for providing access to university conference proceedings. He is currently researching how web blogs fit into library collections, the usefulness of the traditional library online catalog as a data repository for supporting other library projects, and how a repository for storing metadata schemes and transformations might help librarians reuse metadata tools to more efficiently develop digital library projects. He has an undergraduate degree in history and graduate degree in library science from San Jose State University in California. Before coming to Cornell, he worked for academic libraries in Indiana and Pennsylvania. Email: nar25@cornell.edu
